Clearswift Email Appliance

The Clearswift Email Appliance is an SMTP gateway designed to provide secure email messaging from 50 users upwards. It offers inbound and outbound security and policy management with gateway to gateway encryption.

The Clearswift Email Appliance offers all the messaging communication controls to provide a highly effective, productive and resilient email security solution. It is purpose built to allow the free exchange of appropriate email communications, while mitigating data loss, regulatory, legal and reputational breaches. It reduces operational cost and complexity by consolidating and simplifying the management of email policy controls and user quarantines, while eliminating malware and spam risks.

Define communications and increase productivity

Clearswift's content-aware message decomposition uncovers the true content of every email allowing you to define intelligent and flexible policies around every element of any email communication, including policy-based routing of communications for encryption or archiving. The option to delegate quarantined email releases to users significantly increases administrator productivity and speeds-up email delivery.

Reduce total cost of ownership

Operational and running costs are reduced as the Clearswift Email Appliance consolidates multiple point products and is easily integrated into your messaging infrastructure. The common policy console and peering features, integrated with Clearswift Web Appliance, lowers administration overheads, while the flexibility to deploy on your own hardware, or virtualized in VMware, saves time, money and footprint.

Minimize risk of data loss and security breaches

The decomposition of all email message contents and attachments prevents data losses, stops inappropriate language and ensures your compliance and audit requirements are met. The integrated security deals with all malware threats by blocking unrecognized data, anti-virus scanning for malware and eliminating at least 99.5% of all spam before it enters your network.

“Great value that scales well in most any enterprise environment makes this our Recommended product”

SC Magazine – March 2009

"Best in email security"

Why is the Clearswift Email Appliance different?

The Clearswift Email Appliance is designed to provide your employees with the freedom of safe and productive email communications.

Tight integration with the Clearswift Web Appliance simplifies administration and provides consistent policy enforcement while consolidated data loss prevention and malware security reduces the complexity of managing multiple point products.

The common interface reduces complexity, increases effectiveness and allows security management to be shared.

Over 20 years development is invested in providing the adaptable policies designed to reflect the way people really work and to allow the positive communications and collaboration necessary for business success.

In brief

It is available pre-built on Dell hardware or as software image for production deployment on supported Fujitsu, HP or IBM hardware.

It operates within a VMware environment to support virtualization.

Multiple email and web appliances may be peered together and have their policy updates managed from any appliance in the peer group.

The standard default email policy is easily customized to an organization's acceptable usage requirements and the appliance is typically deployed in under an hour.

The MIMESweeper content-aware engine is supplied with pre-built managed lists covering multi-language profanity and common business terms plus editable compliance terms lists and lexical expression checks such as credit card number and national/social security number identification.
